

Severe Hail Storm Damages Town Gardens and Windows

One of the worst hailstorms experienced in recent years passed over Macleod on Sunday evening, doing a tremendous amount of damage to gardens and windows. The storm seemed to gather in the north-west of town, and then swung around until it was pretty well north-east, it then came down to the Old Man River and the town received the full force of the storm. The hail was fierce and terrific and the resulting damage was great—trees were stripped bare of their leaves, gardens were literally pounded into the ground and almost every window facing north was broken. It is estimated that in the Mounted Police Barracks alone 18 dozen panes of glass were broken. At the depot and round house of the C.P.R. about 100 lights went out, and the town, generally speaking, had the appearance of having experienced a heavy rifle bombardment. Every light except one on the north side of the Roman Catholic Church was broken, but fortunately no damage was done to the beautiful stained glass windows.

Amongst the business places the Macleod Flour Mill and the Empire Hotel were probably heaviest losers by reason of broken windows.

All over the town, wherever there was a flat roof, it was penetrated by the hail and torn up by the storm. The great sufferers in this respect being the garages, the Midland Motors and the Co-operative Garage, and the City Garage, also Barker's, Cunningham-McLarty's and R. W. Russell's store all sustained heavy damage. Fortunately the plate glass windows on main street were spared, though the upstairs windows in the business blocks, largely occupied by the professional men of the town, were nearly all of them broken.

The hail was followed by a heavy downpour of rain. The official record was 1.85 inches, but since the storm on Sunday heavy rains have continued to fall.

A few farms in the vicinity of Macleod were hailed, notably, as far as can be learned, those of Alex Macdonald, and Frank Cook, the Grier Bros., J. Connolly and T. Laycock. The consensus of opinion is that the hail did not damage these crops appreciably but that the benefit derived from the rain which fell, in conjunction with the hail, will more than offset damage occasioned.

The hail did not extend very far either north or south of Macleod, about two miles south and about the same distance north, though beyond these limits there was a heavy rainfall which was very welcome and acceptable; in fact it is pretty generally conceded that taking the district as a whole Sunday night's storm was more of a blessing to this community than otherwise.

General reports throughout Macleod district indicate that the rainfall of the past three days was general and heavy and the crop situation hereabouts is considered to have been redeemed—a fair average crop being assured.

LATER

As far as actual hail losses are concerned the latest information to hand is that applications for adjustment have been made by Messrs. H. Little, Chas. Clarke, Harris Bros., J. Horner, J. A. White and Mrs. Blunden.

CARD OF THANKS

To the people of Hazelmere and Macleod for the deep sympathy expressed to us in the loss of our daughter, Muriel, we wish to extend our deepest gratitude.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Turner,
410, Sixth St. W. Calgary.

G. W. V. A. Dominion Day Sports

(By a Spectator.)

Dominion Day, 1920, was one of the most interesting and enjoyable holidays Macleod has ever seen, and the fair ground was crowded with people who found that from the first shout to the distribution of prizes that their was not one dull minute in the whole program. It was evident from the way in which everything was managed that the veterans have not lost the influence of their military training, for there was manifested in every move a touch of discipline and promptness that carried the program along in a manner that is seldom seen upon such occasions, when things usually drag along with wearisome slowness, but on Wednesday, however, all the events were handled with promptness and with despatch.

There was a large number of people present from Granum, and from the farms and ranches around Macleod, who for the time being were trying to forget sand and wind and hard times and were out for a good time. It was certainly a variety program the Vets. put on, races for boys and girls as well as adults; foot and horse races, jumping and throwing; and every person who took part did so with zest and enthusiasm.

The winner of "Putting the Shot" must surely be a Scotchman, for he had the Scotchman's knack of "putting."

"Tossing the Caber" drew no competitors, but we are positive that Johnny Pringle could have turned the trick had he tried. The tug-of-war was a keen contest and finally, the farmers were declared the winners. This is a contest that is always interesting, especially when the teams are well matched, and by the way we would like to offer a suggestion—There is a whole lot more in the selection and the placing of men than one would think, a light team if handled by a capable captain, can give an exciting time to a much heavier team not properly organized. The old rule "two sitting and one standing and all pull" is a good one.

The flat races of course were to the fore and the addition of a few Indian events gave variety to the program.

The running broad jump was a close contest between A. Watson and N. Kirk, the former winning with a jump of 16 feet 10 inches. If all things had been equal the relay race would have been a neck and neck affair. Our boys were splendid sports and every one did his best even though he did not win. By the way, Mr. Hoodless did not announce the time in the Public School Sprint—was it 10? Bravo! MacGowan for your live interest in the youngsters, it was a close race.

The glare of the sun and the distance from the bleachers robbed the contest between our noted Macleod Golfers of much of its interest, never the less it was a worthy suggestion to include the "royal and ancient" game in the program.

We have still with us the "Broncho Buster" but there was not much material on hand for this event.

The basket-ball game was a pleasing feature, though it was rather hard on the girls who were called upon to play in the hottest part of the afternoon; there might have been a little more care in the selection of the teams as the "A" team was composed mostly of the well trained High School team, whilst "B" team, though they did splendidly, have not had the practice of their opponents.

In the management of the day as a whole the veterans are to be congratulated, every member was busy. President McGowan with the pupils of the school, Hoodless as announcer of the events, McLarty, Barons, Pollard, Rowley, Scoull, and a host of others did their best to make things go. Mention must also be made of the faithful few who stayed with the staff, in other words worked and worked hard in the refreshment booth; Billy Whitworth, Robb and the other boys who worked away cheerfully ministering to the calls of the "inner man." All told it was a splendid affair and will go a long way to make next year's celebration a much greater success, now that the public has seen what can be accomplished by our own local veterans, without the help of outside attractions.

Extensive Con- struction of Rural Telephones

The government contractors are now in Macleod making preparations for the construction of about 60 or 75 miles of rural telephone lines. The area included in the program for this summer includes Spring Point, Rathwell, Ardenville, Allenfield and Stand Off, and other places south of Macleod. This will mean 50 or 60 new lines coming into the Macleod exchange and will be a great convenience to the many farmers in the south who have been agitating for telephone privileges for so long.

After the racing events were over Mrs. J. L. Fawcett, the mayoress, distributed the prizes to the successful competitors, and during the afternoon R. W. Russell's orchestra entertained and delighted the crowd with the strains of sweet music which was greatly appreciated. The crowd finally dispersed for supper, to gather at a later hour to witness the ball game—the ball game with the big "B" between Macleod and Granum. There may be some, and they must be Scotchmen—who appreciate the fine points of our national game, but after all there is in a good game a great deal of mental quickness and alertness necessary to win. Those who are "green" to the game doubtless derive a great deal of amusement from the actions of the "rooters" for they are surely comical, with impromptu satire and repartee bandied back and forth with perfect good nature. However, it was a close game, and the boys and girls shouted, and men and women yelled themselves hoarse, though who yelled the hardest may be a question, but why not?—when there were so many exciting thrills. The game was full of fine play. Manager Marks, of the Macleod Team, had his men in good shape and they went to work with their usual "pep." The visitors put up a good fight and for a time it looked as if they were going to walk away with the prize, but towards the end Macleod woke up and finally the game finished 11 to 10 in favor of Macleod. Come again Granum and bring your "rooters" along with you, for we all admire such good sportsmanship and good will.

The following is a list of the prize winners:
Boys' race, 8 to 10 years—1st, Jack Renwick; 2nd, Allen Gordon; 3rd, James Lambert.
Girls' race, 8 to 10 years—1st, Florence Herring; 2nd, Tordis Carlson; 3rd, Edith Pollard.

Three-quarter mile novelty race—1st, J. Zoeteman; 2nd, Ben S. Wolf.
Boys' pony race—1st, Geo. Chugg; 2nd, F. Hobbs.
The baseball match was played on the Town Square at 6.30 p.m. The score was: Macleod 11, Granum 10. The G.W.V.A. dance in the evening was an enjoyable affair and was well attended—it is sufficient to say that it was fully up to the standard established by the Veterans in these functions which have become a notable feature of Macleod's social activities and which it is hoped will be continued in the interests of harmless diversion for the young people of this town.

Letter from Premier Stewart To Mr. Gardiner

The following letter has been received by R. J. E. Gardiner, secretary of the Macleod Agricultural Society, in reply to the resolutions passed at the recent meeting held in Macleod to consider the soil drifting problem.

Edmonton, July 2nd, 1920.

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of June 28th, containing copies of resolutions passed at a meeting of farmers at Macleod.

With respect to irrigation. This matter is being pushed just as rapidly as possible.

With reference to resolutions numbered 2 and 3. We have made arrangements with the Dominion Government to hold all rye in the country fit for seed.

Yours very truly,

Chas. Stewart.

R. J. E. Gardiner, Esq.,
Secretary, Macleod Agricultural Society, Macleod, Alberta.

Irish Troops In India Mutiny

LONDON, July 4.—Three-fourths of a battalion of the Irish Connaught Rangers stationed at Jaltunder, in the Punjab, India, mutinied following the arrival of news of recent events in Ireland, according to a despatch from Simla, under date of July 2, to Reuters, Limited.

Upon receipt of the same news at Solan, in the Simla hills, another detachment is reported to have attempted to seize arms and ammunition, the despatch says, adding that guards killed two of the men and wounded one. The despatch says that when the last mail reached the troops they became greatly excited, and the decision to lay down their arms soon was reached, one-fourth of the men remaining loyal to the colonel. The troops expressed regret that they were unable to serve any longer, and gave up their arms and ammunition. While remaining entirely respectful to their officers, the men explained their sympathies were with their friends in Ireland. The troops now are separated in camp under the strict guard of a British regiment.

Following the drastic action of the guards at Solan, the despatch continues, all is quiet there, and reports from Jutogh, six miles from Simla, say that the detachment there remained tranquil.

According to the despatch the officers regard the whole affair as a development of Sinn Fein action and believe the prompt measures taken to restore order will soon cause the men to settle down.—Morning Albertan.

Boy's Curiosity Ends in Mishap

An electric washing machine which was being demonstrated in Burnham and Frith's store on Jasper avenue incited the curiosity of six-year-old Alex. Constabaris. Displaying child-like delight and curiosity in the strange contrivance, the youngster inserted a nickel between the rollers "just to see how it would work." By-standers in the store were horrified to see the child's arm become caught in the rollers. Before the machine could be stopped, the boy's arm had been drawn in right up to the shoulder and it was necessary to take the contrivance apart before his arm could be released.

Only the fact that the screws regulating the distance between the rollers were not tightly adjusted saved the child from serious injury. As it was he escaped with a badly bruised arm. Dr. Collinsbee was called in and rendered medical aid. It was stated that the youngster was none the worse for his strange experience. The injured child is a son of A. Constabaris of the Arcade confectionery store.—Edmonton Journal.

RULES FOR SWIMMING

Wait for at least an hour after eating before swimming.

Tom Robinson, veteran swimming coach, presents these rules for swimmers:

Do not go in bathing alone. There is safety in numbers.

In learning to swim move toward the shore; never swim away from the beach.

Keep out of rough water if you are subject to heart trouble.

Never accept an invitation to ride in a canoe if you cannot swim.

In entering the water keep the hands under so if you step into a hole you can immediately start swimming.

Never swim until exhausted. Don't "show off."

If caught in the undertow, try at once to float.

Learn them by heart.

Remember them when you come near the bathing beach.

Proportional Representation in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Man., July 4.—Ronald Hooper, of Ottawa, honorary secretary of the proportional representation society of Canada, who had charge of the counting of the proportional representation election here in a statement on the working of the new system says:

"The Winnipeg proportional representation election just concluded, in which forty-one candidates contended for ten seats, has clearly shown that a ten member constituency may be just as practicable as a smaller one, provided the ballot is competent and well trained. The personnel of the Winnipeg counting staff was all that could be desired in these respects, and it was this that made possible the announcement in less than four days of the results obtained from sorting and re-sorting nearly 48,000 ballots.

"The average number of all men engaged in the work was 34, and the time during which they were actually employed amounted to 45 hours.

"Seventy-five per cent of the electorate cast their votes, and the percentage of rejected ballots amounted to only 1.72. This is very low for so cosmopolitan a city.

How Votes Were Polled

"The Labor party (which included the Socialist group) polled 42.5 per cent of the first choice votes and elected four members; the Liberal party polled 30.4 per cent and elected four members; the Conservative party polled 13.7 per cent and elected 2 members. The eleven independent candidates together polled 13.4 per cent, but these candidates were each independent of the other and therefore none succeeded in securing the quota of votes necessary for election.

"A further analysis of the result sheet shows that all parties received their fair share of representation. A considerable proportion of the 11,586 first choice votes for F. J. Dixon, a Labor candidate, with a surplus of votes were marked with second preferences for Liberal and Conservative candidates, as were also many of the eliminated independent candidates' ballots. This accounts for the fact that the Labor party received slightly less and the Liberal and Conservative parties slightly more representation than their first choice votes.

"It is one of the distinct advantages of the single transfer vote system of proportional representation that such subtle variations from strict party opinions can be registered and recorded. Such information cannot fail to influence the action of those whose business it is to interpret and put into effect so far as possible the will of the electorate.

"The single transferable vote system of elections does more than merely secure the representation of parties in proportion to their numerical strength. It might be as a barometer which registers as no other system can—possibly do the temperamental changes in the political thought of the country; and a study of the detailed result sheet of the Winnipeg elections would well repay a legislature striving to bring together the conflicting elements within the city."—Morning Albertan.

Death of Former Hazelmere Resident

The Hazelmere community will regret to hear of the death of Mrs. C. Nutter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Turner, who died at Bassano on Sunday, June 27, following an operation for appendicitis. Whilst living in the Hazelmere District Mrs. Nutter was well known as one of the most earnest workers in connection with the Anglican Church and at Bassano, where she removed in 1914, she was a very keen worker in the Anglican Church Guild.

The funeral took place on Tuesday last and was attended by a large concourse of sympathizing friends. The casket was followed by a dray loaded with floral tributes of memory and affection.

NATIONAL

Among the new pupils at first day of school was a small Norwegian lad. The teacher asked him his name.

"Pete Peterson," he replied.

"And how old are you?" was the next question.

"I do not know how old I bane," said the lad.

"Well, when were you born?" persisted the teacher.

"I not born at all; I got stepmutter."

Not a moment to soon and not too late this rain, which appears to be fairly general, will cause rejoicing among the farmers of Alberta. It was badly needed and its effects promises to mark the difference between failure and moderate success for the 1920 crop.

Alberta Bred Percheron Wins at Royal Show

CALGARY, July 3.—That Alberta bred Percherons won first, second and third prizes at the greatest livestock exhibition in the world, the Royal show in London, England, was the information received by George Lane, owner of the famous Bar U ranch, Saturday morning in a cablegram from W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Prince of Wales' Alberta ranch properties.

The cablegram reads: "Perfection first; Paragon, second; Nettie, third, at Royal show."

These are the first Canadian Percherons to win at the Royal and the singular feature is that Paragon and Perfection are Alberta bred stallions and their dams were Alberta bred.

The three winners are all well known in Western Canada fairs and horse show circuit, especially Paragon and Perfection, which were first and second, sometimes one leading and sometimes the other.

The owners of the winning stallions are Hon. Alex. Parker, of Warwick, and R. E. Parker, of Easton, Norwiche, England.

Perfection Paragon and Nettie were all shown here at the last fair held in Lethbridge, and were easy winners in their classes—Lethbridge Herald.

Hydro Electric a Big Success

TORONTO, July 4.—A report just issued by the Ontario Hydro-Electric power commission states that the twelve municipalities in this province which were the pioneers in the hydro movements took a combined power load of 16,615 horsepower in 1912 and in 1919 90,739 horsepower, an increase of 74,176 horsepower in eight years. The transforming and distributing systems for the twelve municipalities required an investment of $13,360,822. The reduction of power rates for the eight year period has ranged from $4 to $9 per horsepower, and has lowered the cost to the municipalities by $1,647,181, and the saving to consumers, according to the report has been considerably in excess of this total.

The 12 municipalities in question are: Toronto, London, Guelph, Stratford, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Kitchener, Hespeler, Preston, Waterloo, Newburg and Ingersoll.

Eight of these now have sufficient to cover their outstanding debt, and Guelph and St. Thomas have more than $2 accrued surpluses and reserves for every dollar of obligation.—Morning Albertan.

Small Town Agricultural Fair

In discussing the holding of agricultural fairs in small towns the Lethbridge Herald has the following to say:

"The interest taken in the agricultural fairs in the various localities where it is proposed they should be held is, in the prospects of a season which is not of the nature of a bumper one with regard to crops, an extremely wholesome signification. It signifies that, in spite of the drawbacks which the farmers have to encounter, there is still the interest taken in their particular occupation, if not a pride in the same. It is a good spirit and an encouraging spirit, and serves to show the faith the farmers have in the possibilities of the occupation to which they have devoted themselves.

"The holding of fairs, if for nothing else, stimulates interest, takes away anything of despondency, and creates a healthy rivalry. These are assets in helping towards the attraction of farm life, in the opportunity furnished for wholesome interest."

With which we agree, and the town of Macleod is fortunate in that it is not in the unenviable position of having to regret that it has no fair this year. The Macleod Agricultural Society have gone ahead and have made all arrangements for their annual fair; the prize lists are published, the committees are at work and the energetic secretary, R. J. E. Gardiner, is busy in his endeavors to make this year's fair the "best ever," and we believe his efforts will meet with success. We delight in the splendid optimism that prevails in this country and we believe that with all working together we shall see one of the best fairs in the South Alberta district.

An Irish regiment in India has revolted after hearing the news from Ireland. The reason is said to have been Sinn Fein influence. However, the authorities there have the situation well in hand and the revolting troops are under guard. The incident indicates what may be looked for before the Irish situation is finally settled.

Council Meeting on Monday

The regular monthly meeting of the Town Council was held in the Town Office on Monday evening. Present: Mayor Fawcett, Councillors Muldoon, Macdonald, Gardiner and Morris.

The Medical Health Officer presented his monthly report, showing the health of the town in good shape and free from infectious diseases.

Chief Ridley also submitted his report, the first since his appointment as Chief of Police.

Dr. Kennedy approached the council on behalf of 38 citizens of Macleod who had subscribed $188 towards getting the town water out to the cemetery, asking that the town undertake to put the water in and assume the balance of the cost. In presenting his case Dr. Kennedy called attention to the present conditions at the cemetery, and said that most of the ratepayers knew that the town was not able to bear the whole of the cost of carrying the town water there so a subscription list had been opened and $188 had been raised and he was before them to ask the council to assume the balance of the cost.

Mayor Fawcett in reply said that he was in hearty sympathy with the proposal, but at present the town was not in a position to incur any extra expenditure. However, he thought that this was a matter that should be left over and he promised that the engineer would be consulted as to the cost and the question dealt with at the next meeting.

A. F. Grady appeared before the council regarding the hours allotted for watering gardens and lawns, urging that these hours were too restricted. The mayor explained that the engineer was anxious to reduce the load at the pumping station during the busy hours of the day and anxious to get the ratepayers to help in curtailing the use of water during these heavy hours. The council did not want to cause any hardship or inconvenience and the matter would receive the attention of the council.

Councillor Morris introduced a resolution regarding the crop conditions and the furnishing of seed rye for fall sowing, as passed by the Municipality of Bright, and asked that the Town Council endorse the same. This the council was quite willing to do, and added a rider to the effect that Macleod was dependent upon its revenue from this territory and asking for immediate action on the part of the government.

On motion the council adjourned at 9 p.m.

Car Wrecked on Willow Creek Hill

What might have been a fatal accident took place on Saturday, when the Gray Dort car belonging to W.
Miller and driven by his housekeeper, went over the grade on Willow Creek hill. The lady was coming into town and on reaching the hill the car skidded round and started over the bank. The lady jumped clear of the car and so escaped injury, but the car is a complete wreck.

This hill is dangerous anyway and there should be a fence at the top, as strangers coming from the north have no idea of the sharp turn and steep grade until they are close up.

Boys Camp at Macleod

There will be a boys' camp in Macleod from July 9 to 16. Boys from twelve to sixteen years of age may hand in their names to Rev. Lewis and Rev. Kennedy or to any pastor.

Rev. W. E. Galloway, B.A., secretary of the Religious Education Council, will have charge of the camp.
Mr. Galloway was formerly secretary of the boys' work at the Calgary Y.M.C.A. Tents and camp beds will be supplied for the boys, but they must bring their own bedding and grub stake.

Government to Start Work on Blue Line

In the course of a few days it is expected that a large road crew with teams and graders will start work on what is known as the "Blue Line," running south from Macleod—the roads that will constitute the main tourist road from the Montana boundary to Calgary and Banff. Work was commenced on this road last fall but the early winter put an early end to all construction work. When this road is completed it will not only benefit a large number of tourists, but the whole farming country will appreciate a good road.

Public School Board Meets

There was a meeting of the Public School Board in the Town Office on Tuesday evening, and the question of teachers for the coming term was the main item of discussion, but while several recommendations were made there were no definite appointments to fill the vacancies. It was, however, decided to eliminate Grade XII from the High School this year as up to the present there is only one pupil in town likely to take this grade.

WHY MENTION IT?

Mary Ellen, up from the country,
got into an omnibus.

Presently the conductor said, aff-ably: "Your fare, miss."

The girl blushed.

The conductor repeated, "Your fare, miss," and the girl blushed more deeply.

By this time the conductor began to look foolish.

After a pause, he again repeated:
"Miss, your fare."

"Well," said the girl, "they do say I'm good-looking at home, but I don't see why you want to say it out loud."

Race for Oil

The coming age may well be termed the petroleum age, in the great part the possession of oil will play in the potentialities of nations. Oil will not only figuratively but potentially grease the wheels of commerce.
In this respect it becomes a national, if not a provincial policy, to seek to develop the oil resources within reach and to save them from falling into outside hands. The possibilities of oil production in Alberta and a policy of developing the same may well engage and become a governmental policy, at any rate in safeguarding the rights of the same.

The British Government, with a shrewdness and foresight which have been given a fillip by the experience of the war, has set the example in the policy of getting control of oil areas, fully sensing the national importance of the possession of the same.

With something of feverish anxiety to get possession of and to keep control of oil deposits in the world, the British Government has sent out geologists, backed companies, purchased controlling interests in companies, and sent experts to locate, obtain and develop valuable oilfields. The Persian oilfields form part of the commercial history of Great Britain.
In 1901 she went into Persia. There an Australian had obtained a concession from the Persian Government which carried with it the exclusive rights for sixty years to drill for oil, and to produce, buy, and take out oil and petroleum products throughout Persia, except in five provinces. This concession covered 500,000 square miles. The history of this concession is interesting. The Australian located a deposit, established a well, and the first gusher carried away the derrick. There was no pipeline and no refinery, and the Australian's funds were low. To keep the fields under British control, prominent men interested in oil in England formed what is now the Anglo-Persian Oil company. A pipeline and refinery were established and operated for four years. Funds again ran low, and this led to the British Government stepping in and purchasing a controlling interest in the company. This has proved a remunerative investment, with great commercial benefits to be derived in the future. Some of the wells in Persia have flown steadily for ten years, and are still yielding oil freely. These the British Government controls.

Mesopotamia, which by the Peace Treaty comes under Britain's sphere of influence, furnishes another great field of activity in oil development.
Now British geologists are already at work and surveys are being made for oil development. The field here promises to be one of the largest oil-fields in the world.

In India only British companies are now permitted to operate. The Burma Oil company holds a blanket concession. It is a third owner of the voting stock of the Anglo-Persian Oil company, and is, therefore, a partner with the British Government. Both companies are interested in the Egyptian oil deposits, as is also the Shell Transport & Trading company, and British part of the Royal Dutch-Shell combination. The Egyptian fields, those of Trinidad, and some others in the British Empire are closed to American companies. On the other hand, British concerns have interests in the California and mid-continent fields in America, and in Mexico. In the latter holdings the British corporations are said to threaten the supremacy of the Standard Oil company.

The British Government is understood not only to be negotiating for control of the Shell corporation but the Anglo-Persian company, controlling interest in one of the largest distributing organizations in the world, and a huge refinery is being erected on the south coast of Wales.

The cost of coal has risen to such a point that industrial establishments are bound to consider oil as a fuel when it becomes more available. With oil resources at hand, the maritime supremacy of the British Empire can be sustained whatever may happen to the coal trade. Oil, even in the matter of cleanliness when placed against coal, will be welcomed in factories. The great calorific power of oil as compared to the space it occupies, and the less space which oil engines, as compared to steam engines occupy, magnify the importance of oil as an asset. This will mean much to commerce in that there will be greater cargo space afforded in ships than at present. There is also the great benefit which the use of oil will give in enabling a ship equipped for oil fuel to bunker for the round trip. That oil will be king is, therefore, very apparent.—Lethbridge Herald.

SCIENTIFIC AGRICULTURE IN SASKATCHEWAN

Upper Picture.—Students' Residence, University of Saskatchewan. Live Stock Pavilion in the background.
Lower Picture.—"Better Farming Train," showing how instruction is carried to the farmers.

Long after the ivy peered in at the upper windows of such splendid universities as Oxford, Cambridge or Harvard, such an institution as the University of Saskatchewan had not even been imagined. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who laid the corner stone of this new university July 29th, 1910, was a student poring over his books few but Indians had stood on the height of land which is the site of the buildings shown in the accompanying photographs, and watched the waters of the South Saskatchewan River gliding swiftly and silently northward.

Although the prairie soil was as rich and the river as broad and full then as now, the City of Saskatoon was unconceived. Even as late as twenty years ago, where now stands a city of 30,000 people on three lines of railway, there were not one hundred men, women and children and these were housed in a few tents and shacks. The wildest enthusiast would hardly have dared to prophesy that one day a university would grow there—yet there it stands!

The buildings of the University of Saskatchewan crown the height of land north east of Saskatoon and the site could hardly have been more fortunately chosen. It includes half a mile of well-wooded river front and altogether embraces 1,333 acres of rich land, 293 acres of which are set aside for a campus, 160 acres for purposes of agricultural experimentation and 880 for the Agricultural College farm. The plan provides for the eventual accommodation of 5,000 students.

The present buildings consist of an administration building, containing a hall and offices for the different departments as well as class rooms, two students' residences, one containing a spacious dining hall and the other a gymnasium and swimming pool; an engineering building; livestock pavilion and up-to-date model farm buildings. All the buildings conform to the pre-conceived plan and, like those already erected, be of stone in the Gothic style. Work has just recently begun on a new science building. There are also several private residences on the campus, the two principal stone ones provided for in the architect's plan being those of the President of the University and the Dean of Agriculture. The buildings of Emmanuel College, a church of England Divinity School, the first of its kind in Saskatchewan also occupy a part of the campus. The University grants sites of from three to five acres to such affiliated colleges at a nominal rental. Eight thousand dollars have already been subscribed towards a beautiful structure which will be the home of the Presbyterian College.

The university provides degrees in Arts, Science, Law, Agriculture, Civil Engineering and a Diploma in Pharmacy.

The present enrolment is between 1,400 and 1,500, including returned soldiers who are retraining in various branches of skilled work, particularly engineering. Scores of promising returned soldiers have been turned out as capable motor mechanics. Steam engineering and the handling and repairing of farm tractors are also taught. Agricultural students, principally the sons of farmers, are training in livestock handling and judging, and even in the care and management of poultry.

An important feature of the work of the University of Saskatchewan has been its Extension Department consisting of short instructional courses at seasonable times for farmers and farmers' wives. Each year a special train is fitted out and a regular course of instruction mapped out including lectures to farmers. This train is widely advertised as the "Better Farming Train." It makes a tour of the Province, stopping at all important points and the farmers drive in for miles to examine the exhibits, talk over their problems with experts and hear the lectures. Realizing that the average busy farmer cannot go to the University, an effort is made to take the University to him and to let him know at first hand the results of experiments with special varieties of grain, the latest information about methods of soil tillage, and the like.

During the recent winter evening lecture courses have been given at a nominal fee for the benefit of city residents. Some of the best educated people in the community have attended these classes.

From an educational standpoint Saskatoon offers as great opportunities as any city in Canada. Complete training from Kindergarten to University is provided through a fine set of public schools, thirteen large public schools, which ranged in cost from $118,000.00 to $156,000.00 at pre-war building prices. An accompanying photograph shows two of them in one block in the working class section of the city. The enrolment of pupils in the public schools is now well over 4,000.

The Collegiate Institute, which provides the intermediate stage between the Public Schools and the University, has an enrolment of about 2,000.

becoming a burden on the Municipal District.

(Sgd.) R. B. McNab, Reeve, (Sgd.) H. W. Bright,
Secretary-Treasurer.

The following resolution regarding the Municipal Hospital District was also submitted and passed:

Whereas, it is deemed advisable to establish a Municipal Hospital District, the District to include Municipal District of Bright No. 69, the Municipality of the Town of Macleod, the Municipality of the Town of Granum, that portion of the Municipal District of Argyle No. 99 extending five miles north of Township 10, in ranges 25, 26 and 27 and Local Improvement District No. 100, with the exception of one mile running east and west on the north side of Township 11, Range 28 and 29.

And where, as it is deemed advisable by the Municipal District of Bright No. 69 to join in the said Hospital District, therefore the said Municipal District of Bright No. 69 in council assembled do hereby petition the honorable minister under the said Act to establish the said Hospital District.

'Energy Strike' Halts Passion Play This Year

Leader of Famous Band of Oberammergau Explains Cancellation

BERNE, Switzerland, July 3.—The world has probably seen the last of the famous passion plays of Oberammergau.

Under normal circumstances this would have been an Oberammergau year and tourists from all parts of the world would have crowded into the little Bavarian village to witness the famous plays which have been performed once every decade for more than three centuries. But the war has played havoc also with this out-of-the-world place; there will be no performance in 1920.

"I have just had a talk with the impersonator of Christ, Anton Lang, whom I found at work in his little potter's shop," a correspondent writes. He is a man still on the sunny side of fifty, with a typical Christ-like head, blue eyes and long auburn locks.

"Why are you not going to play this year?"

"There are several reasons. Personally I should like to, and so would four-fifths of my fellow performers, if only to help along the feeling of the brotherhood of nations. If they could only come here, all of them, we could do so much to wipe out the bitter feeling of hatred engendered by the war."

"But do you think the tourists would come as conditions are now?"

"Why, I should say so. The mayor and I have already had a number of inquiries from abroad if we were going to play this summer. Anyone who has been here once always returns. Only a few days ago I had an offer from a big American impresario to go to the United States and give our passion play there. I could ask for any sum I wanted and it would be paid without haggle, but I am not going to do so, and do you know the reason why? Here I am in my home; here I am known to everybody, but over there I should just be a rootless tree. At first the money tempted me, for one could do so much here with money; but I am not going even if this may mean that we shall never play again."

Energy on Strike

"But who is opposed to the idea of playing this year?"

"Well, you know that strikes are the order of the present day, and here with us it is the energy of the entire community that has gone on strike. If we only made up our mind it could easily be done, though perhaps not until this fall or next year. To tell the truth, we have hardly any money, and very little to eat, but when it came to helping along the feeling of brotherhood among men, perhaps the government might come to our assistance and lend us sufficient support to get the plays started. If we hesitate much longer our famous ensemble shall never be able to act again. I am no longer young—I have already played the part of the Savior three times—and the others are growing older too. The girls marry, and then they are barred from acting. Maria Twink, the daughter of "Judas," has married, and we have no one to replace her yet. Our little community has lost courage, and none of us performers dare say anything, because we are interested parties. Our costumes have been made into bandages for wounded during the war, but we could get over all these difficulties if the will were only here. It is a great pity that the authorities will not help us."—Edmonton Journal.

Bright Municipality

At the meeting of the Bright Municipality No. 69 held in the office at Macleod on Saturday last, the following resolution was unanimously passed, and copies were ordered to be sent to the Premier at Ottawa and the Premier of the Provincial Legislature. It was also decided to send a copy to the Town Council of Macleod, and the U.F.A., Macleod, asking them to endorse the resolution, and take such action as they saw fit.

Whereas, part of the crop in the Municipal District has been utterly destroyed by the high winds and cutworms;

And whereas, the farmers have had a total failure of crops from drought since 1917, the Municipal District is unable to render any further assistance on account of borrowing large sums of money for relief, feed and seed during the past three years;

Therefore, be it resolved, that this Council petition the Dominion and Provincial Governments to come to their assistance by advancing Fall Rye Seed and also by starting irrigation construction at once, thereby enabling farmers to get work for themselves and teams and prevent them

JOURNALISTIC HYSTERICS

The Lethbridge Herald in reporting Macleod's hail visitation was fairly reasonable and reliable up to the point where it says "the path of the storm was from about one mile east to ten miles west," and in the last paragraph an hysterical crescendo is attained by the Lethbridge scribe in stating that "Hail insurance adjusters are busy all over the district trying to figure out the crop losses."

The facts are that the path of the storm covered from a mile east to four miles west and only five farmers in the district were hailed, and they consider that the benefit of the rain which fell in conjunction with the hail a great deal more than offsets any damage caused by the latter. Practically the entire damage caused by the storm was to gardens and windows in the town of Macleod.

To-Day's Farmer

When you look at t'-day's farmer you can't help marvelin' at th' wonderful progress we've made in th' last twenty years," said Tell Binkley, as he got his money back on a pair o' hole-proof socks he'd only worn six months.

"Th' farmer that used t' drive t' town once a week t' get a stale country newspaper now knows ev'rythin' that happens in th' world th' next mornin'."

"He knows what Senator Hiram Johnson said yesterday an' he knows where Bryan talks t'night."

"It used t' be impossible t' look after a forty-acre farm an' keep track o' who wuz president."

"A farmer used t' be out in th' woods splittin' rails without knowin' whether th' government at Washin'-ton still lived or not."

"Nowadays a farmer kin plow along leisurely an' throw his tractor in th' neutral an' hop in a tourin' car an' go t' town an' git a chocolate sody an' be back in th' furrow without ever bein' missed."

"T'day he kin milk fourteen cows by electricity, jump in t' a form fittin' suit an' motor t' town an' play a little pool or see a drummer an' git up in th' mornin' an' discuss th' Shantung question, or th' latest senate investigation, with all th' intelligence of a statesman."

"A few years ago if a farmer's wife's mother wuz going t' pay 'em a visit she wuz five days behind her postal card."

"T'day she jumps off th' interurban an' surprises 'em before the've had time t' git out a white tablecloth."

"T'day, a farmer knows jest exactly what he's goin' t' git for a calf or his eggs or his hogs before he starts t' town."

"If he wants a new suit o' clothes he straps a calf on th' runnin' board, an' if his wife wants a new tailored dress she gathers up a few eggs, an' in twenty minutes they're parked in front o' th' court house."

"Ther hain't anything a modern farmer can't have that town folks have got but city water."

"He kin have electric arches in th' lane leadin' t' his house, an' his wife kin have an electric face massage outfit. He kin plow at night."

"A farmer's wife kin run out t' th' mail box an' git an apron full o' mail in th' mornin' an' read all forenoon an' drive t' town for some creamery butter, or a new hat, without feelin' that she's neglectin' her home."

"City folks can't tell a farmer's wife from any other wife. She kin buy a sealskin coat without th' sales-lady ever deamin' that she's jest weaned a calf or made a barrel o' soap."

"A farmer an' his wife used t' come t' town all covered with dust an' bed quilts in a big green wagon, an' drive behind th' court house an' jump out stiff legged."

"Mother an' th' children would take a roll o' butter an' some eggs t' th' grocery an' git trimmed, while paw dickered around a implement store."

"Then they'd all meet an' maw an' th' children would go t' th' dry goods store an' stand till paw called at th' postoffice an' waited till th' clerk dug his weekly paper an' Kansas land circulars out o' th' general delivery."

"Then they'd all pile in th' wagon an' th' team would scare a few times gettin' out o' town an' in about three hours they'd be back on th' farm an' find a lot o' hungry stock waitin' at th' bars."

"But the telephone, good pikes, interurban cars, improved machinery, automobiles, an' fair prices, have changed all o' this."

"T'day's farmer is so sophisticated an' free o' whiskers that you'd never suspect he wuz a farmer if you didn't see him comin' out of a bank, an' if he's discontented it must be on account of his liver."—Farm Life.

Fair Representation

The Norris government finds itself in an unsafe position at the present time, not because the people have lost faith in the administration, which is far from the case, but rather because the government was not courageous enough to apply the system of proportional representation to the part of the province other than the city of Winnipeg.

The result was that in a number of three and four-cornered battles the government usually got the worst of it. In a three or four-cornered fight, governments, particularly Liberal governments, usually lose in the encounter.

The riding of Brandon is a case in point. Mr. Smith, an eminent labor man, made an aggressive and successful battle for the riding. He was the labor candidate and he wielded a two-edged sword, smashing right and left. There was little competition between the other candidates, but both hammered Smith. The result was that Smith with a solid support, won out by a very neat plurality over each, but by only a comparatively small percentage of the total vote polled.

Had there been proportional representation, a single transferable vote, the government would have saved the seat. As it is, Brandon is being represented by a minority candidate.

This should be a warning to the Stewart government. The Norris administration was as strong in the country as the Stewart government the farmers in Alberta are much better organized and official opposition much stronger than in Manitoba.

In the last election the Alberta government lost four and perhaps five seats because of three-cornered battles. That was before the group was common. Conditions will be very much worse in the next provincial election—Morning Albertan.

Platform of the Democratic Convention

From the already submitted platform of the Democratic Convention, it looks as if the League of Nations will be the contending issue in the Presidential election when the campaign assumes its final stage.

The Convention, it would appear, has adopted the Wilson program with regard to the League of Nations. There is nothing of a compromise denoted. It is the whole League and nothing but the League, with no count taken of reservations. The platform announced is clear on this issue. As drafted it favors the League of Nations as the surest if not the only practicable means of maintaining the permanent peace of the world, and as it states, terminating the insufferable burden of great military and naval establishments.

The policy of President Wilson and his views on the League of Nations are wholly endorsed, and the platform covering the League, not only congratulates the President on "the vision manifested and the vigor exhibited in the prosecution of the war, but on the exceptional achievements in Paris involved in the adoption of the League and the Treaty, so near akin to previously expressed American ideals, and so intimately related to the aspirations of civilized peoples everywhere."

That it is a Wilson Convention is shown in the endorsement given to the President's views of the international obligations of the States and his firm stand against reservations designed to cut to pieces the vital provision of the Versailles Treaty. The platform advocates the immediate ratification of the Treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity. Having thus freely spoken its mind on the League, it however, with something of wisdom to bring into line any wavering elements, in the regard they hold to the League, accepts that no opposition will be made to any reservations making clearer or more specific the obligations of the United States to the League. The meaning conveyed in this may be implied to be that the Lodge reservations are not regarded as specifying these obligations.

In the issues between the two parties in the States, that in regard to the League of Nations is of particular interest to the people of Canada and the British Empire. Interest also centres on the relation of the Convention to the Irish question. The Sinn Fein element did not get much satisfaction from the Republican Convention, and it cannot be said that it received a great deal of encouragement from the Democratic Convention in the platform statement of the views held in regard to Ireland. The stand taken is non-committal and diplomatically worded when it is said that within the limitations of international comity and usage, the Convention repeats the several previous expressions of the sympathy of the Democratic Party of the United States for the aspirations of Ireland for self-government. This does not carry any endorsement of the Irish republic, as Mr. De Valera and his followers would have liked to have seen expressed.—Lethbridge Herald.

Make Anglo-Jap Alliance Triple by Adding China

Interesting Proposal Made by Peking and Tien-Tsing Times

Peking, July 3. — (By Associated Press)—China should be admitted as a member of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, thus making it a Triple Alliance for the Far East, according to the conclusion reached by the Peking and Tien-Tsing Times in a lengthy series of articles dealing with the approaching renewal of the Anglo-Japanese pact. The paper says:

"The treaty should be modified insofar as necessary to make China a party. It is a serious departure from the usual practice in international relations for two powers to enter into an agreement respecting the interests of a third power without the latter's assent and one which in our view ought not, in this instance, to be perpetuated. The inclusion of China in what would then become a Triple Alliance for the preservation of peace in the Far East and the maintenance of her integrity and independence and of the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations, would constitute the most effective guarantee that nothing would be done by either of the other parties without full and frank consultation with her."

Besides the admission of China to the pact, the Times proposes a series of conditions in the renewal of the alliance, by which China shall be safeguarded. One of these would bring about the restoration of China's sovereignty over the Liao Tung peninsula, including Port Arthur, and the reversion of the South Manchuria railroad to Chinese control, at the expiration of a definite period. Other conditions proposed are summarized as follows:

"The independence of China today is violated by the presence upon her soil of the foreign garrisons other than the troops provided for under the 1901 protocol and the limited number guarding of the South Manchuria and Chinese Eastern Railways. Great Britain should insist, therefore, as conditions precedent to the renewal of the alliance upon the withdrawal of all Japanese troops on Chinese soil whose presence is not provided for by treaties or agreements in operation on July 13, 1911.

"Although Tsingtao was forcibly occupied by Germany in 1898, her administration of the port and leased territory aroused no serious opposition until 1914, when Tsingtao became a base of warlike operations against Allied shipping. The German methods of administration were liberal compared with those of the Japanese, who are aiming to make it a closed port. The restoration to China of Tsingtao, under conditions which guarantee equality of treatment to all the powers, should therefore be insisted upon by Great Britain."

"The Shantung Railway, which is at present being used mainly to exploit Japanese interests and as a pretext for the presence of Japanese garrisons in Shantung, should become a Chinese Government state railway, operated by a Sino-Japanese administration, on terms similar to the text for the resence of Japanese garrison supervision."

"The practice of treating the nationality of members of the customs branches of the service at Tsingtao and Dairen as a test of fitness, which in effect places the heads of the customs in these ports under the jurisdiction of an interested power, should be discontinued."

"Britain and Japan should mutually agree to withdraw their post offices from China as soon as France, Italy and the United States are prepared to do likewise."—Edmonton Journal.

THE ONE WAY

Sir John Foster Frazer, the English literature, was talking in New York about the privations of literary men.

"With the price of food trebled and quadrupled," said Sir John, "and the price of copy cut in half, what is the literary man to do?"

"I know a literary man in London who teaches up-to-date dancing in a night club all night and writes stories and novels all day."

"You can't keep this up, old chap," I said to him sternly. "You can't burn the candle at both ends."

"But, hang it, Sir John," he answered, ed, "it's the only way to make both ends meet!"

LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE

It was Murphy's first trip across the Atlantic, and he felt unspeakably awful. He failed to connect the fact of his being on the briny ocean for the first time with his agony. The doctor came to him as he tossed about in his berth.

"Cheer up, man," he said, heartily. "I know you're feeling bad, but you're not going to die."

Murphy opened horrified eyes.

"Not going to die?" he wailed.

"Faith, doctor, I thought I was! That was the only thing that kept me alive."

WANTED NEW PARTS

"When I bought this motor car from you a few weeks ago," cried the irate purchaser, "you said you would be willing to supply new parts if anything broke."

"Certainly, sir," agreed the manufacturer. "What can I have the pleasure of providing you with?"

"Well," replied the purchaser, "I want a pair of new ankles, a left eye, three yards of cuticle, a box of assorted finger nails, four front teeth and a funny-bone!"

Gov. Cox, Democrats Choice For President

After a battle lasting the greater part of a week the great Democratic convention held in San Francisco terminated in the selection of Governor Cox, of Ohio, as the Democratic candidate for president. The two great outstanding figures in the contest were Cox and McAdoo, and it took 44 ballots to arrive at a decision.

As a result of the San Francisco convention we have the unusual and unique situation of two Ohio men contending for the presidency and both of them old newspaper men.

The following is an outline of the history of Governor Cox, taken from the Lethbridge Herald.

James Middleton Cox was three times governor of Ohio—an honor enjoyed by only one other Ohioan, Ruford B. Hayes.

Born on a farm, educated in the public schools, a printer's devil, a school teacher, a newspaper reporter, a private secretary to a congressman, owner, manager and proprietor of two newspapers, member of congress for three years, and three times governor of his of his state, is his record to date.

Business success paralleled his political achievements, and through his own efforts Cox has amassed a fortune. Mr. Cox became the leader of the Democratic party in Ohio in 1912 when he was nominated for governor. As one who had brought radical changes in the state constitution, he took the field in its behalf. His first term as governor was devoted chiefly to forwarding the enactment of laws to put the new state constitution into effect.

But Ohio evidently was not prepared to assimilate all the new laws, for Cox was defeated for re-election. But his party renominated him in 1916 and he was re-elected for a third term in 1918, being the only Democrat to win in Ohio.

Legislation for which Governor Cox is best known includes a model workmen's compensation law and a child labor law which have been extensively copied by other states. Educators of the country say that the Ohio school code, enacted under Governor Cox's direction, will live as a monument to his achievements.

Mr. Cox was born in Butler county, Ohio, in 1870. He attended district school and held his first position as a teacher of the school in which he took his first lessons. He spent evenings and holidays in a printing office. In a few years he received his first assignment on the editorial staff of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

After 10 years with the Enquirer he went to Washington as a private secretary to Congressman Paul Sore of Ohio. At the close of this service he purchased the Dayton Daily News, borrowing most of the money to pay for it. Later he purchased the Springfield Daily News. He was first elected to Congress in 1908.

He recently purchased the farm near Jacksonburg upon which he was born, and is making it into a modern farm home where he expects to live on retirement from public office. He is married and has four children.

VERY CRUDE

"Boy," said a spectator, looking out to sea, "what kind of a ship is that out there?"

"A cruiser," was the answer.

"And who are on board?"

"Her crew, sir."

"And by what means does she travel?" asked the interested man.

"Oh, its screw, sir!" came the smart reply.

"You are a very smart lad, and where do you come from?"

"Crewe, sir!"

And he asked no more questions.

Sometimes very small events in life influence the larger ones. How could it ever happen, for example, that a chicken saved human life? Well, such a thing actually came to pass in Fulton, Missouri. The nights began to sharpen up, with cold winds blowing, so Mrs. Blankenship, a farmer's wife, brought a somewhat belated mother hen and her chickens in the kitchen for an overnight roost out of the storm. Along towards morning the occupants of the house heard an outlandish squawking. It was the hen in the kitchen raising an alarm. A room on the lower floor was in flames and the family might have been burned in their sleep had the kindly hen not called them to action. There should be a rooster on every fire department roster.—Hoards.

"George," said a Florida man not long ago to an old negro in his employ, "I understand that you intend to give your son an education?"

"Dat's my intention, suh," responded George. "I know myself what 'tis to struggle along without learnin', an' I has determined my son ain't goin' to have no sich trouble as Ise had."

"Is your son learning rapidly?"

"He shore is, suh. Las' week he done wrote a lettah to his aunt what lives more'n twenty miles from yere, an' afta a while he's goin' to write to his aunt dat lives 'bout fifty miles from yere."

"Why doesn't he write to that aunt now?" smilingly asked his employer. "He kain't write so fur yit, suh. He kin write twenty miles fast rate, but I tole him not to try fifty miles till he gets stronger wif his pen."—Jacksonville Times-Union.

All day long the storm had raged, and as night closed down that fourth day of July it's fury increased. The good ship struggled bravely, but her sudden rolling carried a clear message to those familiar with the sea. Suddenly from the bridge a rocket blazed its way into the inky sky, then another and another. Fighting his way against the howling wind, a solemn passenger crawled to the bridge ladder and, ignoring rules, up it.

"Captain," he shouted into the ear of that grim-faced officer, "I protest! Patriotism is quite right and proper, but there is a time for all things, and when we are in grave peril is no proper time for a fireworks display!"

A young fellow at the club was talking to an old and conservative member with reference to criminal procedure, when he observed:

"I see there's some talk in this state upon the question of abolishing capital punishment. Would you vote to abolish it?"

"I would not," was the decided reply of the old chap. "Capital punishment was good enough for my ancestors, and it's good enough for me!"

A young fellow joined the police force in Scotland, and in the course of duty found it essential to arrest a very old offender.

Arrived at the police-station the policeman ushered him into the cells with the comment: "Mind the step."

"Gae awa', man," said the prisoner looking at the other contemptuously. "I kent that step afore ye was born."

That which counts is the grim determination to win which nothing but realization can satisfy and the determination to realize it at any cost. This is a force so impelling that it will bore its way through every difficulty. It is this insatiable longing and the determination to realize it, that moves the world.

Twenty-two ballots had been taken in the Democratic convention up to the time of adjournment on Saturday, and still no choice for presidential candidate. The fight is on again today and the chance for a dark horse seems to be growing brighter, just as was the case with the Republicans.

"You find a man who's satisfied, You find a man who's dead; And if you find a live man who For nothing further sighs, Though in the pink-red bloom of health, He's dead before he dies."

France Sees Wilsonian Influence

Republic Feels That Its Policies Are Being More and More Submerged and Public Men Are Moved To Bitter Assaults On Moderation
Shown To Germany

PARIS, July 3.—Criticism of President Wilson's peace policies by French publicists continues. Increasing feeling here that French policies are being more and more submerged in moving public men to bitter assaults on various causes which they regard as underlying the increasing international attitude of moderation toward France's late enemies. Alfred Capus, of the Academie Française, wrote bitterly in the "Gaulois": "Whether at San Remo or Hythe or at Spa, all conversations and discussions concerning the peace treaty are tainted with the Wilsonian spirit, and that constitutes the real reason for all difficulties, present and future."

"Let us not forget that Wilson dreamed of giving the German defeat a mystical character. He wanted to hold Germany up as an example but he would not allow her to be punished, and he sought various combinations by which the guilty could repair the damage done without suffering themselves. 'I will force Germany to repent,' he said one day without remarking the contradiction between repentance and constraint. He shut himself up and we shut ourselves up with him in a network of subtleties which Mr. Lloyd George had no interest in unravelling."

"A charming story is told of an old Parisian who inviting a grand duke to dinner, proposed that the diner try his luck at a new game."

"What is the game?"
"Odds or evens?"

"Proceed," said the grand duke, and the old Parisian asked "odds or evens?"

"Evens," replied the nobleman.

"You lose," said the Parisian. "Now let's play for the champagne. Odds or evens?"

"Odds," said the nobleman.

"You lose again."

"What is this game?" asked the astonished grand duke, and the old Parisian explained:

"Well, you see I think of a number. If I think of an odd number and you call even you lose!"

"The devil," observed the Grand Duke, "it's a game one cannot play with everybody."

Germany the Winner

"It is this kind of a game which Mr. Wilson is inviting us to play with Germany. He wants to let Germany 'think' of the sum which she owes us. Today we can see that it is better to fix the sum ourselves and we must profit by all occasions progressively to eliminate from the peace treaty all that remains of the Wilson spirit."

British Labor to American Labor On July 4th

By Milton Bronner
(Alberta's European Correspondent)

LONDON, July 4.—The Labor party of Great Britain, with 65 members in the house of commons, is the official opposition party in parliament. It expects within the next few years to govern Great Britain.

The party's annual conference has just elected a new executive committee which formulates British labor's policies. The first official act of the new committee was to give me the following exclusive Fourth of July message to America:

"July Fourth is a salient date in the history of democracy. It marks the birth of American nationhood and the rise of a new force in the struggle of peoples for political liberty."

"The British Labor party associates itself with the celebration of American Independence day as a demonstration of friendship with the American people and of its faith in the universal validity of democratic principles."

"These principles are being challenged today all over the world by reactionary influences. Such influences, hostile to the development of the democratic spirit are at work now in both countries and the organized labor movement must use its influence to prevent the estrangement of the two peoples."

"British labor declares that there are no grounds for quarrel. It protests against the efforts of sections of the capitalistic press on both sides of the Atlantic to make mischief between Britain and America."

"We hope American workers will join with us in resisting all attempts from whatever source they come, to sow the seeds of enmity and strife."

"We particularly hope that American workers will not allow their interest in the cause of Ireland to be exploited by those who desire to provoke bitterness. The Labor party, at its annual conference, has declared emphatically in favor of self-determination for Ireland and has pledged itself to use every effort to secure full exercise of this right without further delay."

"It would be an immeasurable calamity if this issue were permitted to provoke bitter feelings which might eventually lead to a conflict between the two nations in which the achievements of democracy everywhere would be destroyed."

The message is signed by the following 21 British labor leaders, representing the whole British labor movement, conservative and radical:

J. R. Clynes, M. P., privy councillor, former member war cabinet, ex-food controller.

W. Tyson Wilson, Tom Shaw and James Wignall, all members of parliament.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, economic writer; Neil Maclean, M.P., founder Scottish Co-operative association.

Crop Conditions Generally Good

FIFTH SEMI-MONTHLY CROP AND LIVESTOCK REPORT

Crop conditions at the opening of July call for more than common emphasis. A brief review of the season's progress would take account of: Fine general moisture conditions over the province at the opening of spring; a later seeding than usual chiefly due to plentiful moisture. A fairly satisfactory conclusion of grain seeding owing to the supplementing of horse stock with handy tractors. The occurrence of limiting factors in Southern Alberta consisting of the partial blowing of sixty thousand acres north of Lethbridge, some damage by cutworms in the same area, some threatened damage by grasshoppers south of Lethbridge and slight droughts on the Calgary-Saskatoon line.

Liberal Rains

Moisture conditions continue to be wholly favorable. Good rains have occurred over the whole of the province during the past two weeks subject to slight delay in the blown area which needed it worst. Recently rains have occurred in this area also and there is going to be some revival of injured crop in this district.

Crop Well Rooted

Temperatures, as might be expected during the period of liberal precipitation have not been high. This is not a drawback to the experienced Alberta farmer. The wheat and oats have been getting well established for heavy fruitage. Fat cereals are not made in tropical fields. Following the establishment of the crop warm weather has now set in and the growth is extremely rapid. Some of the spring wheat both in Central and Southern Alberta has reached a height of twenty inches. Oats are in all stages of growth from grain crop covering the ground heavily to greenfeed just standing through the soil, but in every case the crops are turgid and young shoots almost transparent with moisture. At the beginning of the season conditions were reported to be the best for five years and subject to very slight discount the progress of the crop carries on the same promise.

If thy children ask bread of thee wilt thou give them a stone? If the parched garden, luxuriant with color, scent and beauty, or the little calves and lambs, with others of their ilk, piteously, in their expressive dumb language, mutely pray to you for rain—do you also in your incomprehensible nature's way reply "You make me tired. Rain you beg for—you shall have it, but to teach you in the future to wait on my will and pleasure, I will give you rain but it will be very hard and heavy"—And it was so—even as Nature's God had said. It gave warning by a long drawn out moan, as of a giant drawing in his breath, then belching it out again. It seemed as if a hurricane was gathering strength to assist the spite of the elements. The wind roared and moaned, driving a pitiless, vindictive, relentless rain before it, but the drops were frozen. It beat the malcontents who had dared to ask for moisture. It dashed them to the ground, their backs were broken, they had no life or spirit left. But died with their accusing fingers pointing to the sky, mutely saying: "It is better thus." Thy will be done.

New Premier and New Party

At the Unionist Caucus held in Ottawa on July 1st, Premier Borden announced his decision to retire as leader of the party. This decision was accepted by the caucus, and while no steps have been taken to select a new leader it is rumored that Hon. Arthur Meighen is the choice of the party. At this meeting it was also decided to form a new party under the name of "The National Liberal and Conservative Party." The platform of the party was drawn up and announced with the following planks:

National Expenditures

Owing to the heavy tax burdens entailed by the war, and resulting from railway policies adopted in pre-war days, the general national interest demands the utmost economy in every department of government and effectual provision for the gradual reduction of the war debt. All expenditures, including even those of a productive character should be strictly limited to essentials.

More comprehensive and effective methods providing for the control of expenditure by parliament must be devised and adopted.

National Railways

and unifying the various railway lines owned by the Dominion with a view to eliminating duplication and effecting economies in construction and administration.

Efficient, expert management and operation of the entire national railway system unfettered by partisan political interference.

The fixing of a proper capitalization of the national railway system.

National Defence and Air Service

The reorganization, upon a moderate scale, of the Canadian militia system, and the restriction of the permanent force to such establishment as will constitute a nucleus for defence, maintain respect for constituted authority and ensure the public safety.

The establishment and maintenance of an efficient nucleus of the Canadian air service so constituted and administered as to be available for either military or civil duties.

Ex-members of the Forces

Continuation of the policy of aiding ex-members of the forces to become satisfactorily established in the civil life of the community.

Should experience show the necessity, further special consideration of claims made on behalf of the disabled, or the dependents of those who have fallen, in order that the nation may discharge its full obligations to those who have thus suffered.

Labor

The enactment of such laws as will carry into effect the ideals and principles embodied in the treaty of peace, regard being had, as contemplated by the treaty, to the time and character of similar legislation enacted by other nations. The encouragement of confidence and co-operation between employers and employed.

Agricultural

The inauguration of policies conceived with a view to increasing the agricultural production of Canada, and of improving marketing methods and facilities in order to obtain the best net return to producers.

With this object in view, and for the purpose of eliminating duplication of services and expenditure, the reaching of an agreement with the provinces respecting the future activities of the federal and provincial departments of agriculture.

Co-operation with the provinces in the direction of providing better rural credits and improved social conditions in rural communities.

Regulation and control of cold storage and refrigerating facilities so as to provide for the satisfactory marketing of perishable products in the interests of both producer and consumer.

Co-operation with the provincial departments of agriculture in a united effort having for its object the improvement of the livestock and dairy industries to the end that production may be increased and quality improved.

To further facilitate and encourage all phases of agricultural production by investigation and experimentation.

Foreign Trade

Continued thorough study by competent experts of foreign markets and the opportunities therein for the development and extension of Canadian trade and the collection and distribution of pertinent and up-to-date information in relation thereto to the businessmen of Canada. Efficient publicity agencies for making known abroad the commercial resources and products of Canada. The maintenance of continuous communication by correspondents and personal visits between our agencies abroad and our products at home. A system of accurate and comprehensive statistical representation of our commercial and productive output and distribution.

Immigration

A firm adherence of the principle that Canada, as a self-governing nation, has the absolute right to determine its own immigration policy.

The energetic promotion of immigration of desirable classes of persons who wish to establish homes in Canada and to become loyal Canadian citizens. As in the past, encouragement will be confined to prospective land seekers, agricultural labor and household workers.

The continuation and extension of the policy adopted to prevent the landing in Canada of mental or physical defectives or all such persons as are likely to become public charges, and of those whose ideals, customs and modes of living are such as to render them incapable of assimilation within reasonable time.

Natural Resources and Conservation The transfer under fair terms and conditions of the remainder of the public domain held by the Dominion to any province of Canada, in which such domain is situated, subject to such reserves as may be deemed advisable in the public interest.

As regards the public domain and all other natural resources outside the provinces, and owned by the Dominion, the adoption of such policies as will result in their use and development to the advantage of Canada as a whole.

Inland Waterways and Highways

Such further development of the existing canal systems of Canada as is necessary to improve navigation and cheapen transportation; with the additional object in view of developing the production and uses of electrical energy for domestic, agricultural, municipal, industrial and railway purposes and under such prudent regulations as will thoroughly safeguard the interests of the people. The carrying to completion of the provisions made by parliament for co-operation with the provinces in the matter of highways construction.

Bermuda Now Preparing For Tercentenary

HAMILTON, Bermuda, July 3.—Bermuda, the oldest remaining British "plantation," is preparing to celebrate its tercentenary this autumn, for which purpose $2,000 has been appropriated. Since the Prince of Wales announced the other day that he meant to pay a call on his loyal subjects, they hit on the scheme of combining two festive occasions and having one grand affair on October 7, when the Renown, with the heir to the throne aboard, is to cast anchor here.

It was August 1, 1620, that the colonial parliament held its first sitting, but as the royal engagements cannot very well be altered, it was thought wise to set back the gala date.

For nearly 300 years the business of governing this little outpost of the Empire has gone on under the same forms without material change. It is but natural that the 20,000 inhabitants of this twenty square miles of coral rock should wish to honor their aged constitution.

Originally founded by a shipwrecked company under Sir George Somers, destined for Virginia in 1609, the islands have remained continuously under British rule.

Revenues are raised chiefly from tariff duties. No land taxes are levied by the colony. There is a very light tax on realty in the parishes and the proceeds are used for the maintenance of the poor.

There are no divorce laws in Bermuda and only one breach-of-promise case was ever tried here. Most of the cases on the calendar involve bicycle stealing, assault, petty theft; there is little serious crime, though in a region where everyone rides a wheel the theft of a bicycle is regarded somewhat as horse-stealing was in the west a few years ago.

There are old-timers here who have never set eyes on a train or a trolley car; but of late they have had the satisfaction of seeing flyin-boats circling through the air.

Innovations of any kind are apt to be looked on with some suspicion. The majority is conservative and that is perhaps why so much sentiment is attached to the coming celebration of the 300-year-old constitution.

—Edmonton Journal.

For three successive nights the new and proud father had walked the floor with the baby. On the fourth night he became desperate and on arriving home from the office unwrapped a bottle of soothing syrup.

"Oh, James," exclaimed his wife, when she saw the label, "what did you buy that for? Don't you know it is very dangerous to give a child anything like that?"

"Don't worry," was the husband's tired reply; "I'm going to take it myself!"

Remove the Rooster

The presence of male birds in the flock during the summer months has a decidedly detrimental effect upon the quality of eggs and poultry producers lose many thousands of dollars annually through the presence of partially incubated and bad eggs in the produce they market. Reports are now being received from all parts of the country of the number of partially incubated eggs appearing in current receipts. Producers do not realize that it is unnecessary for a fertile egg to be placed under a broody hen to cause the germ to grow; a temperature of seventy degrees is sufficient to start incubation. If the heat is constant the development of the chick will continue, but if it ceases or is intermittent, putrefaction at once sets in and the egg becomes bad. Such eggs have no place or value in shipments, and should they get to the consumer the consumptive demand immediately falls off.

The male bird is not essential in egg production, his usefulness is over when the supply of fertile eggs for the season has been secured. The hens will lay just as many eggs when the male bird has been removed and the eggs will be more suitable for consumption, packing or storing. Further, there is a distinct financial gain to the producer who markets infertile eggs, because the best trade in many cities offers a premium of from one to five cents a dozen for infertile eggs.

Then there is the question of feed. It costs money to feed poultry, and with feed at its present value, the consumption of feed by males kept for no particular purpose is a serious economic waste. The reason for this is that the best prices for live and dressed fowl prevail in the spring and early summer. During the summer the price declines, and by the early fall when many producers decide to market their male birds, a lower price than prevailed in the spring has to be accepted; the producer thus losing the amount per pound the market has declined, plus the value of the feed consumed by the birds during the summer months. This financial loss takes on a more serious aspect when it is coupled with the amount charged back by the wholesaler for the band and partially incubated eggs that have been marketed. Farmers and others selling eggs for market should, therefore, need no urging to kill off, dispose of, or at least remove the male birds from the flock after the breeding season.

A Million Dollar Baby

Naturally those who see this heading expect to read about some "baby heir" of an American multimillionaire, and they will be surprised to learn that such a description applies to a scientific pyorrhea preventative, tooth and mouth preparation, and they will doubtless wonder how such a product ever came to be spoken of as a "million dollar baby." So the story must be told. Over three years ago the Research Department of the Rexall Company, in consultation with the most eminent medical specialists and foremost dentists, began an exhaustive investigation into the disease Pyorrhea, and its proper treatment, and in their characteristically thorough way spent over two years before they perfected a compound which answered every test and received the complete endorsement of the ablest physicians and dentists. Such a remarkable demand has been created that last year, its first, over a million dollars' worth of Klezzy Liquid Antiseptic was sold. This very wonderful amount in its infant year, prompted the Rexall people to call it their "Million Dollar Baby." Probably no preparation that is devised for use as a germ combatter, was found so efficacious in preventing all contagious diseases that enter the system through the mouth and nose as Klezzy Liquid Antiseptic. Especially was it proved that users of it completely escaped all attacks of the flu when so prevalent last year. This Rexall product can be purchased in 40c special toilet bottles at Ferguson's Rexall Drug Store.

Agricultural Education for Boys and Girls

A man may never be too old to learn, but the youth is conceded to be more teachable than the person of mature age. By providing suitable instruction and training for the young men and women of the farm, more lasting benefit will be conferred than by seeking to make good the deficiencies of the older generation. The 1918-19 report of the Agricultural Instruction Act Commissioner reviews the work carried on during the year by the provincial departments of Agriculture and Education with the funds placed at the disposal of the provinces for agricultural instruction by the Federal Government. This bulletin is obtainable from the Publications Branch, Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa. The report indicates that about one half of the total annual grant of $1,100,000 is applied to the instruction of adolescents.

For the advancement in the direction of agricultural teaching in the rural schools, the grant is largely accountable. Along with it have been developed, nature study, school and home gardening, boys' and girls' clubs in poultry, pig and calf rearing, canning, bread-making and similar activities, culminating in the annual school fair. Practical projects of this kind may easily be made the medium for training the intelligence, because they are seized upon with eagerness by most boys and girls.

In certain high schools agricultural and household science courses are being developed, and in more than one province, special vocational schools of agriculture have been established and receive assistance from the grant. In developments such as these lies the hope for the improvement of modern agriculture through the rank and file of the rural population, to whom the centralized college of agriculture is not available. The present day need is that it should be made easy for country boys and girls to secure an educational training of such a character as will fit them for country life and rural pursuits. Colleges of Agricultural and Veterinary Colleges have not, however, been overlooked; they also are given liberal assistance. Following the close of the war, the attendance at these institutions shows a marked and gratifying increase, and their influence in promoting the advancement of Canada's leading basic industry, Agriculture, will continue to make itself felt.

THE REAL THING

A distinguished Indian officer, Scotch to the core, has never lost an opportunity of advertising his countrymen. One evening at mess he had a large number of guests, and had a magnificent specimen of a Highland piper on duty behind his chair. To draw attention to the man's splendid appearance he turned to him and said: "What part of Scotland do you come from, my man?" With a punctilious salute the reply came, "Tipperary, yer honor!"

Mounted Police On Long Ride

A complete squadron of "M" division of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, under the command of Major R. Y. Douglas, arrived in Calgary Tuesday afternoon, after a five-day ride from Macleod. The squadron is breaking its march to the summer training camp at Banff, by stopping off in Calgary for two days, and will be encamped in Elbow Park on Wednesday and Thursday.

Leaving Macleod on the morning of Thursday, June 24, Major Douglas' squadron camped at the end of each day's ride at Granum, Claresholm, Nanton and Okotoks, from where they completed the march into Calgary Tuesday. Moving as a self-contained unit, the squadron marched with a complete staff and transport, and was accompanied by Inspectors Lindsay and Townsend, two of the officers of "M" division who are serving with Major Douglas at Macleod, and Sergeant Healy as acting sergeant-major of the squadron.

A Perfect Trip

In a conversation with The Herald on Wednesday, Major Douglas stated that the division met with no difficulties en route, and experienced a perfect trip. "The weather was excellent during the march," he said, "and we found the roads far better than we expected; as a result we were able to make excellent time, in spite of the heat, which was only a slight drawback."

"M" division of the police is known to be one of the largest and finest of the force stationed in the west, and is composed largely of original members of the force and many of the best recruits from all over the Dominion. A large percentage of the squadron who are passing through to Banff are men who have served overseas during the war, and who have since enlisted in the R.C.M.P., while many of those who are wearing ribbons for service in France have also a long service record in the old R.N.W.M.P.

Major Douglas is a veteran of long service with the R.N.W.M.P., having served with many of the well known detachments of the force throughout Western Canada. He was stationed at Macleod as an inspector when the old "D" division formed the garrison there, and took charge of that important post as superintendent on the reorganization that took place following the war, when the division at that point was brought to the strength of more than a full squadron. He served with the police squadron of mounted troops that was attached to the C.E.F. for active service during the war, and also saw service in Siberia.

Inspectors Lindsay and Townsend, who are accompanying the squadron, are also officers of long standing in the R.N.W.M.P., and well known throughout the west.—Calgary Herald.
